DET International provides customised education and training services to educational institutions, government agencies, corporations and industry groups across a wide range of small to large-scale international projects.

We are able to draw on the expertise, talent and skills of a workforce of over 80,000 specialist educational staff across TAFE NSW Institutes and NSW government schools. This includes teachers, trainers, curriculum developers, e-learning developers and facilitators, project managers and researchers.

In order to provide international services there is no diversion of local resources. These services are delivered by additional staff, who are funded through commercial income.

Our services include:
- Curriculum and resource development
- Assessment and educational measurement
- Capacity-building programs and workforce development
- Joint delivery of offshore programs
- Training systems and frameworks
- Training needs analysis
- Event management training services
- Professional development.

DET International offers project management capacity for all types and sizes of education and training related projects. We have a proven record in areas such as business case development; project organisation, plans and controls; quality assurance; and risk identification and management.

The standards we set mean that we can deliver high-quality project outcomes and benefits in a timely manner. We also provide a high level of support to our customers to ensure we get the right outcomes.

Our management approach includes:
- Project Cycle Management (PCM)
