The NSW Department of Education and Training (DET) conducts the NSW Training Awards each year to recognise outstanding achievement in the vocational education and training sector. The Awards honour and reward the achievements of students, teachers, training organisations and employers.

All finalists will be invited to attend the Awards Presentation Dinner to be held at The Ballroom, Sydney Convention and Exhibition Centre, Darling Harbour on 8 September 2005 where the Minister for Education and Training will announce the winners.

Separate entry forms provide details of the NSW Training Initiative Award and awards for Training Organisations. Please visit our website www.det.nsw.edu.au/trainingawards for details.
eligibility

The Employer and Small Business awards will be presented to enterprises that demonstrate outstanding commitment and excellence in the provision of training to their employees.

Organisations whose core business is the delivery of education or training are not eligible for these categories. Such organisations should refer to the entry form for Training Organisation Awards.

The Employer of the Year category is open to organisations with 20 or more employees.

The Small Business of the Year category is open to those with fewer than 20 employees. This can include full-time, part-time and casual equivalents. Nominations will not be accepted from branch offices of larger enterprises. However, franchisees may nominate if their training activities are organised independently of the franchise group.

The NSW Training Initiative Award will recognise a leading edge program or product developed and implemented for the purpose of providing high quality vocational education and training. The principal nominee will be one organisation (or part thereof) which initiated or implemented the development of the program or product. Details are provided in a separate entry form.

representing nsw at the 'australian training awards'

The winners of these awards will be nominated to represent NSW in the 2005 Australian Training Awards. All State and Territory nominations are assessed by a panel appointed by the Australian National Training Authority (ANTA) and selected finalists are then further evaluated. Finalists will be invited to the Australian Training Awards to be held in November at the Perth Convention Centre.

conditions of entry

- The closing date for entries is Thursday 26 May 2005
- An organisation must not apply for a similar award in another State or Territory or for the Australian Training Awards in this calendar year. National employers (those with a significant level of activity in at least five States and Territories) may either apply directly to ANTA for entry to the Australian Training Awards or compete at the State level, where only the winner is nominated for the national Awards.
- Candidates must agree to abide by the decisions of the NSW Department of Education and Training (DET)
- DET reserves the right to use photographs and non-confidential information about finalists for promotional purposes

assessmnt criteria

The assessment criteria for these awards comply with those required for entry to the Australian Training Awards. This allows the winners’ submissions to be entered directly into the Australian Awards.

Applicants for Employer of the Year and Small Business of the Year will be assessed against the following criteria. The points listed under each criterion are for your guidance only. Any relevant information which shows the quality of your achievements in vocational education and training may be provided.

1. Extent and quality of education and training for employees
   a. Give details of training and education provided to all employees, including at management level. (Make particular mention of any training that is nationally recognised.)
   b. Is training provided by internal or external trainers? If internal, what are the qualifications of trainers and/or assessors?
   c. How much of your employees’ training is done on-the-job?
   d. How do you integrate on-the-job and off-the-job training?
   e. Do you train for team work, multitasking and innovation?
   f. What percentage of your annual payroll do you invest on training for your employees?
   g. Approximately how much time (on average per month) do your employees spend in training activities?

2. Achievements of the business, or its employees, that may be attributed to training
   a. What evidence is there that your business has an ongoing commitment to training or a “training culture”?
   b. Please tell us about your training “success stories” and how the business and staff have benefited from these?
   c. How do you measure the benefits of training and how do you think training will improve your business in the future?
   d. How do you tell employees and people outside your business about the benefits of training for your business?

3. Integration of training into business planning
   a. Does your business have a business and/or training plan?
   b. How does training fit into your business plan?
   c. What are the training aims of your business?
   d. How do you find out about the training needs of your employees?
   e. How do you involve your employees in planning their training?

4. Commitment to equity in training
   a. Give details of employees in your business that are from groups often under-represented in employment, education and training (people with disabilities, indigenous people, people from a non-English speaking background, people in older age groups, people living in remote areas)
   b. Have such employees undertaken training programs and, if so, how many?
   c. Have any of these employees trained for managerial or supervisory jobs?
   d. Is any of your training specifically designed for such employees?

5. Design and development of training
   Give details of any training program design or development undertaken by your business, either alone or in partnership with others and whether this resulted in any custom-designed or innovative training programs.

*Nationally recognised training is training that results in a formal qualification or Statement of Attainment issued by a registered training organisation. The training must be based on a national training package or an accredited course. This includes New Apprenticeships and Traineeships.
